U. S. Tax Agent Faces Probe Into Deals With Firms

Nunan To Be Called
As Witness For Public
Airing Of 9 Cases

WASHINGTON (AP)—Joseph D. Nunan Jr., today faced possible investigation by the Justice Department and Congress into his relations with firms having tax troubles.

The Revenue Bureau said Nunan, after resigning as U. S. tax commissioner in June, 1947, sought and obtained permission to represent nine such firms.

The fast-moving case brought these late developments:

1. Senator George (D-Ga.) announced the Revenue Bureau had advised his Senate Finance Committee that it turned over to the Justice Department for prosecution all nine tax cases in which Nunan's name appeared.

2. Rep. King (D-Calif.) announced that his House Ways and Means Committee, now probing income tax scandals in San Francisco, will call Nunan as a witness for a public airing of the nine cases.

3. Senator Williams (R-Del.), whose one-man inquiries have been a potent factor in unearthing tax scandals, announced he will insist that Nunan repeat under oath his denial of involvement in the Indianapolis Brewing Co. case.

This newest, many-sided income tax uproar was set off by a Senate speech Thursday in which Williams said the Indianapolis Brewing Co. got a $35,000 tax rebate on top of settling for $4,500 a $636,000 claim for back federal taxes after Nunan got permission in 1949 to handle its tax appeal.

The brewery case is one of the nine listed by the Internal Revenue Bureau.

The bureau said waivers were given to Nunan to represent Alvin and Lawrence Barden of Racine, Wis., and the Indianapolis Brewing Co., but it did not know whether the waivers were used.

Nunan denied he ever represented the brewery or accepted fees from it and said he did not recall ever seeking waivers to represent the firm.

Federal law bars certain government officials from pressing tax claims against the United States for clients within two years after they leave office. It provides for waivers in some cases.

Stolen Dump Truck Found Abandoned

The 1950 dump truck stolen Thursday night from a mine on the West Point-Gavers Rd. was recovered undamaged Friday night at a point between Lisbon and Salineville where it had been abandoned, Sheriff Howard J. Clark reported today.

The truck is owned by Nelson Legler of Lisbon and was being used by Roland Webber of near East Liverpool prior to purchasing it when it was taken. Following the theft, Sheriff Clark broadcast a state alert with added information that the truck was believed stolen by Alfred Tucker, Alfred Webber's brother-in-law.

Tucker is the 17-year old youth who broke out of the juvenile detention room in East Liverpool Monday noon. He was awaiting transportation to the Boys Industrial School at Lancaster for stealing Alfred Webber's car when he escaped.

It has not been verified that the boy, who is still at large, took the truck.

Youngstown Faces Court Suit Under Anti-Pollution Law

COLUMBUS (AP)—The city of Youngstown today faced the threat of a court suit by the state attorney general over the question of dumping raw sewage into the Mahoning River.

Attorney General C. William O'Neill said yesterday he would file such a suit in Mahoning County Common Pleas Court in a week or 10 days. He will charge the city with dumping raw sewage into the river in violation of the state's stream anti-pollution law.

If the suit is filed, it will be the first court test of the anti-pollution law, enacted by the legislature in 1951. If convicted, the city would be liable to a $500 fine. A new suit could be filed each 30 days until the offense was ended. Youngstown is the largest city in Ohio without a sewage treatment plant.

O'Neill said the city has plans to build a sewage treatment plant, but the project has been delayed in a dispute between the mayor and city council over sale of bonds to finance the project. At issue is whether sale of the bonds should be negotiated or by competitive bids.

O'Neill described Youngstown as the "key" to the whole Mahoning Valley sanitation problem. He said other cities in the valley are waiting for Youngstown to solve its sewage disposal problem before acting themselves.

The attorney general said he plans similar court action against other Ohio communities if they do not heed his warning to take proper care of their sewage by treatment. He did not name the cities.

O'Neill's remarks came at a session of the two-day water clinic at Ohio University. Among other speakers was Homer Knox, sanitary engineer with the Ohio Department of Health.

Knox said more cities and villages in Ohio are using ground level or upground reservoirs than ever before to meet growing water demands. He said the City of Lima, with an average daily consumption of 8,000,000 gallons, depends entirely on such storage.

Both boys have been cared for practically since birth by Mrs. Whittaker, Judge Tobin said.

Mrs. Adams and her former husband were in Common Pleas Court Feb. 8 on her motion to cite him for contempt of a support order.

Judge Joel H. Sharp said neither was a fit parent and gave custody of their natural child to Mrs. Whittaker, ordering the father, a furniture worker, to pay support.

One Week Remains For Realty Tax Payments

Columbiana County property owners have one more week to pay real estate taxes without a 10-per-cent penalty, County Treasurer Vincent C. Judge said Friday.

Collection of taxes for the first half of 1951 closes next Saturday, Feb. 23. Receipts through Thursday totaled $76,066, he said.

Iran Parliament Sways Premier

Mossadegh Recalls
Bank Delegation

TEHRAN, Iran (AP)—After declaring "no way is left for agreement," Premier Mohammed Mossadegh yielded to the demands of alarmed Iranian senators today in agreeing to try for a last-ditch effort to negotiate an oil settlement with the International Bank.

Mossadegh had told senators negotiating with a bank delegation which arrived here this week had broken down. The delegation headed by bank vice president Robert L. Garner, came to try to get Iran's oil flowing once again as a first step toward settling this country's dispute with Britain, from whom the Mossadegh government seized the industry.

The Iranian Parliament intervened for the first time since the delegation arrived. After urging another try at negotiations, Parliament named a five-man committee to attend a meeting with the delegation at Mossadegh's residence this afternoon.

When news of the breakdown reached the Senate, informed sources said there were alarmed outcries and some attacks against the premier for what the senators called his failure to consult Parliament.

The senators then appointed a six-man committee to go to Mossadegh and demand he try again to reach some accord with the bank delegates before they departed. The committee urged Garner to keep his delegation in Iran to try to resume the talks.

The mission this week offered Mossadegh a face-saving plan to start the 1½ billion dollar industry pouring forth its oil products again—a plan to let the bank run it until Iran and Britain agreed on a settlement.

Adenauer Invited To Big 3 Meeting

Russian Bid On Inspection In Korea Loses

Czechoslovakia,
Poland Accepted
By U. N., However

MUNSAN, Korea (AP)—The U. N. command today vetoed Communist nomination of Soviet Russia as a neutral nation to help police a Korean armistice.

The U. N. accepted two Soviet satellites—Poland and Czechoslovakia—as the other Red representatives on neutral behind-the-lines inspection teams.

An Allied staff officer said the reason for rejection of Russia should be obvious.

He did not elaborate. But the Russians have supplied Communist armies in Korea with fighter planes, tanks and other war materials, and Russian officers trained the North Korean army before the outbreak of war.

Full Dress Session
The action came in a staff officer meeting after a full dress session by top negotiators in which the Reds offered a revised proposal for a top level Korean peace conference.

The Red draft made no mention of the non-Korean problems—but it was worded in such a way that almost anything could be included.

The Allies turned down part of the original Red plan which called for settlement of sweeping Asian problems.

The new Red proposal said only that a "higher level" political conference should be held within three months after a truce is signed to discuss withdrawal of foreign troops and "the peaceful settlement of the Korean problem, etc."

Vice Adm. C. Turner Joy, senior Allied negotiator, said "etc" could mean a lot of things. "I will not interpret anything until I have had a chance to study it."

An official U. N. command broadcast beamed to Korea from Tokyo declared Saturday that the Reds will quit stalling at Panmunjom "when Moscow feels it can gain nothing further by prolonging the Korean talks."

Stassen Delegates' Petitions Rejected

EAST LIVERPOOL — The Cumberland County Election Board Friday night rejected the petitions of City Auditor Allen McKeever and Fred W. Winland Jr. as Stassen-pledged candidates for delegates to the Republican national convention from the 18th Congressional district. Winland is an East Liverpool lumber dealer.

The Board ruled on grounds of insufficient signatures and improper affidavits. Petitions have been under advisement since the Board rejected the petitions of 10 Stassen-pledged delegates at large yesterday.

Clerk Frank R. O. Hanlon said the Board decided that a sheet of a petition from each candidate had improper certification, cost. McKeever 66 of 162 signatures and Winland 65 of his original 160 signatures. Thus, McKeever lacked four signatures of the required 100 minimum and Winland was short five.

The action was taken after the Board consulted with Secretary of State Ted Brown's office. The Board emphasized that the petitions circulated by McKeever and Winland were found valid in every respect. The rejected sheets had been circulated by others.

SEATED AT THE piano in the Elks home, where he writes most of his music, Plummer Riddle marks in the melody of his latest composition.

Plummer Riddle Never Took Music Lesson

By TOM ROSER
A SINGING commercial for dishwashers, the most complete list of automobiles ever published, and 60 songs on subjects ranging from political campaigns to love to patriotism is the varied output which the imaginative mind of Plummer Riddle of 368 E. Third St. has produced through his hobbies.

Mr. Riddle, Mullins Manufacturing Corp. storekeeper, had only four piano lessons in his life, but composes both music and lyrics for his songs by picking the tunes out by ear. His latest work is a singing commercial for the Mullins dishwasher, called "The Dishwasher Song."

A MEMBER of the Songwriters' Protective Association, Mr. Riddle has his songs arranged by New York arrangers. He has been writing music for 11 years. Before his marriage, Mr. Riddle said, he had a piano beside his bed in his apartment. After going to bed and relaxing, ideas would come to him easier, he explained, and he would only have to swing his legs over the side of the bed and he was in position to go to work without getting out of bed.

Recordings of one of his songs, "A Merry Christmas," were sent out last year by Mr. Riddle as unusual Christmas cards to his friends in this vicinity.

One of his songs, "Franklin, Abraham and George," was used by the Democrats in New York City in a political campaign, Mr. Riddle said.

SWITCHING to his autobiography, the unique result of 30 years of reading through obscure and old magazines and books for names of automobiles, Mr. Riddle told that he was planning to publish the fifth edition of the volume in September.

The fourth edition contained over 2,900 names of automobiles, the great majority of which the average car-owner never knew existed. Since the fourth edition

Three persons were slightly injured at 4:20 p. m. Friday as the result of a three-vehicle accident which occurred at the junction of Routes 170 and 30, seven miles north of East Liverpool.

State Highway Patrolmen said a car driven by Harry A. Grines, 29, of RD 3, Lisbon failed to stop on Route 170 and crashed into the rear of an auto stopped at the intersection by Elfa McKeran, 31, of East Liverpool. The McKeran car was then pushed into the rear of a truck-trailer operated by Sylvester J. Reed, 21, of Akron.

Mr. Grines and his wife, Donna, sustained lacerations of the forehead and Elfa McKeran suffered bruises of both ankles. The injured were treated at East Liverpool City Hospital.

Grines was arrested by the Patrol for failing to stop in an assured distance ahead and fined $50 and costs by Justice of the Peace Felix Butch at Lisbon.

German Leader Asked To Attend By Anthony Eden

Discussion To Center
Around Price Germany
Wants To Aid Defense

LONDON (AP) — Foreign Secretary Anthony Eden formally invited German Chancellor Konrad Adenauer today to join the Big Three Western foreign ministers Monday to discuss future relations between Germany and the Allies.

The meeting will allow U. S. Secretary of State Dean Acheson, French Foreign Minister Robert Schuman and Eden to talk over the big price tag Germany has put on her participation in Western defense forces.

The German Bundestag (lower house) last week made six conditions for Adenauer's further talks on joining the six-nation European army and signing a peace contract with the Big Three. They include full equality with the Allies, freedom for many criminals, and a voice in the North Atlantic Treaty Organization (NATO).

Adenauer, Eden Talk
Adenauer accepted the bid to talk during a 35-minute session with Eden at the Foreign Office.

A Foreign Office spokesman said Eden told Adenauer about the progress of Big Three discussions on Germany.

Acheson, Schuman and Eden have been examining political and military relations with Germany, and Allied security controls over Germany's economy and her military potential.

Immediately after Adenauer left, Acheson resumed with Eden their survey of world problems, mainly the tangle in Allied plans to bring German troops into Western defenses.

The two ministers and their advisers recessed after two hours. There was no immediate hint as to the time for their next session.

Meeting Today Possible

There were reports Acheson and Adenauer might meet later today.

Experts on German affairs from the U. S., Britain and France were meeting almost continuously in London, trying to unravel the political snarls of giving Germany back her freedom from postwar occupation and getting German soldiers armed, trained and lined up with the Western Allies.

The two ministers and their panels of experts are expected to face openly the possibility the defense of the Western world against possible Communist aggression in Europe can only be successful if Germans take part in it.

That means that if the European army formula for limiting German military activity to participation in an international command falls on its face over political stumbling blocks, another solution will have to be sought.

Psychiatry Ruling May Save Murderer

CLEVELAND (AP)—A slender, dark ex-convict's hope of escaping the electric chair for killing a policeman rested largely today on a psychiatrist's testimony he "cannot inhibit himself."

Psychiatrist David W. Sprague testified yesterday just before the trial's second week-end recess that George F. Ross, 27, of San Francisco "is a psychopathic personality."

"He is not insane. He can distinguish right from wrong," Dr. Sprague said of Ross. "He is a psychopathic personality. Such a person never learns from experience. He cannot inhibit himself." Ross is charged with premeditated murder and with murder of a patrolman on duty (Forney L. Haas).

Our Churches

Day Of Prayer Services Set

Mrs. Clyde Matheny To Be Guest Speaker

A CHRISTIAN "togetherness" will be expressed in the World Day of Prayer to be observed Friday, Feb. 29, by Salem people in the Baptist Church and countless churches both here and abroad.

There will be services for children and a luncheon for working women at noon in the Christian Church as a part of the day.

Beginning in the Fiji Islands, New Zealand, on the first Friday in Lent, prayer will encircle the globe and conclude in Gambell on St. Lawrence Island, 30 miles from the Arctic Circle.

More than 17,000 observances were held last year in the United States alone, but by far the most remarkable was the completely silent prayer session experienced by 600 men and women in the meditation room in the United Nations Headquarters in New York City. In telling of the experience this was said:

"There at long last were a few out of every nation and kindred and tribe willing to be gathered, tasting, and finding that the Lord was good; discovering the thing that makes for our peace—togetherness in Him!"

The meeting is sponsored by the Salem District Council of Church Women and services are planned at 10:30 a.m. and 1:30 p.m. Mrs. Clyde Matheny, state president of the United Council of Church Women of Ohio and past president of the Ohio Baptist Women, is the main speaker.

Nearer My God To Thee

A Dying Actress Reads The Bible

In 1837 a tall beautiful woman with regular features, walked off the London stage, broken in health. When she was five years old her mother had died of tuberculosis. Her only sister had contracted the disease and now Sarah Flower Adams had played her last role as "Lady Macbeth."

Partially regaining her health, Mrs. Adams turned to writing verse, dramatic poems and hymns, drawing themes for the latter from the Bible. In 1840, when she was 35 years old, the actress was reading the book of Genesis when she came across the story of Jacob at Bethel. Thus was born the theme for what has been called the greatest hymn ever written by a woman. It was among thirteen from her pen to appear in print the following year.

While nursing her sister, Eliza, Mrs. Adams broke completely. She lingered two years after her sister died in 1846.

On September 19, 1901, every city in America paused in silent prayer for five minutes . . . and to sing the assassinated William McKinley's favorite hymn. He had whispered its title as a dying prayer.

"Nearer, My God to Thee" has rarely been sung since the sinking of the luxury liner Titanic, in April, 1912, without associating it with that marine disaster. As the few life boats pulled away with their cargo of 600, all hope was lost for those left on deck. The ship's hand went down playing a composition by Lowell Mason, the dean of hymn-tune writers, as 1,500 helpless souls sang the words of a dying actress who had read the Bible and, like Jacob at Bethel, had a vision of being drawn . . .

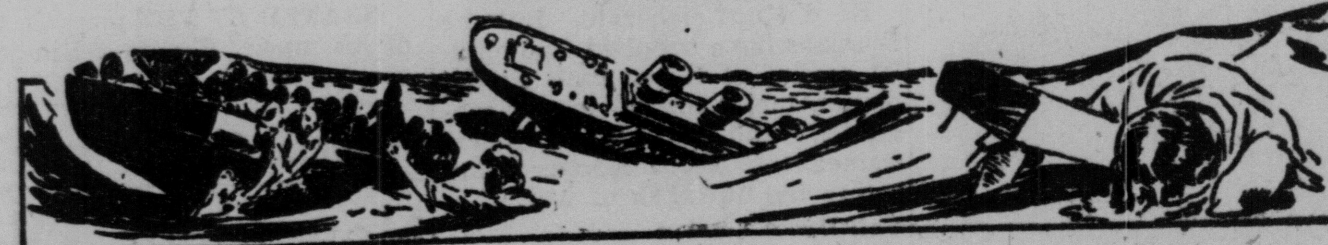

Nearer my God, to Thee,
Nearer to Thee;
E'en though it be a cross
That raiseth me;
Still all my song shall be,
Nearer, my God, to Thee.

Though like the wanderer,
The sun gone down,
Darkness be over me,
My rest a stone;
Yet in my dreams I'd be
Nearer, my God, to Thee.

There let the way appear,
Steps unto heaven;
All that Thou sendest me,
In mercy given;
Angels to beckon me,
Nearer, my God, to Thee.

Then, with my waking thoughts,
Bright with Thy praise,
Out of my stony griefs
Bethel I'll raise;
So by my woes to be
Nearer, my God, to Thee.

Or, if on joyful wing,
Cleaving the sky,
Sun, moon, and stars forgot,
Upward I fly,
Still all my song shall be,
Nearer, my God, to Thee.

Confident Living

By NORMAN VINCENT PEALE

Where All Our Hopes Are Realized

I HAVE just finished reading a most delightful book entitled "A Few Buttons Missing," by the psychiatrist, Dr. John C. Fisher. One of the experiences which interested me most happened to Dr. Fisher on a fishing trip with a friend in the retail furniture business.

Getting to be a physician and psychiatrist had been a long, hard, uphill climb for the doctor and when he finally achieved his ambition, he was proud of his work in life. He could think of no greater job in the world. And secretly felt sorry for people like his friend in the furniture business because he thought their work drab and unsatisfying.

Consequently, it was somewhat of a shock when, on this particular trip, his friend turned to him and said, "John, I've always felt sorry for you because you're a psychiatrist."

"Why?" asked Dr. Fisher in astonishment.

"Well," the answer came, "because in your business you always see people with trouble in their eyes."

"You know," the doctor told him, "I always felt sorry for you."

"You don't have to. For, in my business, I see dreams in the eyes of people. My customers are, for the most part, young people about to set up housekeeping. They come in hand-in-hand to pick out what furniture they can afford and they dream of more and better things. Money they get older, save some money and are able to buy the things they've always wanted. And again I see dreams in their eyes."

I WISH I could have joined in their conversation. I'm a minister and I see dreams as well as trouble in the eyes of people. I see dullness and discouragement. But the greatest thing of all, to me, is seeing hope flash up when people feel the touch of God upon them.

Most of the time, I see this happen in church, both during services and at other times, because church is the place where dreams come true, for there you learn that with God's help your fondest hopes can be realized. There is a passage of Scripture which reads, "I was glad when they said unto me, Let us go into the house of the Lord." Far too few of us take advantage of this great opportunity offered to us not only on Sundays, but, in most churches, on every day of the week.

Church is a place where you can formulate your dreams and take that first step of prayer toward making them come true. All of us have our dreams and ambitions. We struggle to attain them and, in doing so, meet difficulties and obstacles which can easily lead to frustration and disappointment. We tend, under those circumstances, to become cynical, hopeless, and profoundly unhappy.

THE MESSAGE of the church to you is that all this unhappiness need not be. It offers you a technique for achieving, for becoming what you want to be, for overcoming your defeats, for realizing all your hopes of a better life, if you will only first yield to God's guidance, receive spiritual power and employ the simple methodology found in the Bible.

In these columns of mine, I have discussed various phases of this system time and time again and will continue to do so. Today, however, I want to emphasize one point. Going to church is the best beginning you can make. Your own denomination will welcome you and show you how, within the framework of its beliefs, you can utilize the time-tested principles of faith as outlined in the Bible to realize all your hopes and dreams. Start now. Go to church this Sunday.

Congress Cold To Giving

Morris Subpoena Power

WASHINGTON (AP) — President Truman's request for far-reaching investigative powers for Newbold Morris, his government cleanup prosecutor, today faced prospects of rough going on Capitol Hill.

Key lawmakers were quick to term it "unprecedented" and "a complete departure from established practice."

So far as could be determined, Congress was being asked for the first time to cloak an individual in the executive branch with virtually unlimited subpoena powers, and the tremendous added authority to grant witnesses immunity from prosecution.

This is a power never exercised by any committee of Congress, as far as could be determined. The only power to enforce testimony used by Congressional committees is the power to cite a witness for contempt and this is subject to approval by the whole House or Senate.

Girls interested are asked to get in touch with the advisers, Mrs. Arthur Hickman, East Friend St., or Mrs. Kenneth Reash, Duquesne St. ext.

The club was divided because it was getting too large with too wide a spread in the ages and the smaller groups will permit selection of projects more suited to the older and younger members.

Something To Be Learned

A PLAN to test private schools in Pennsylvania for their ability to teach spiritual, moral and ethical standards is getting attention.

These standards are just as important as academic standards. They are so important that part of the Pennsylvania test is to learn whether pupils merely know what they are or actually practice them.

The purpose is to rate the schools' success in teaching young men and women how to live and work in a free society.

It finally is being admitted that character is something which can be improved by instruction, along with knowledge of arithmetic, grammar, history and the scientific arts.

This is in contradiction to that large and noisy school of opinion which has been yammering that nothing must interfere with the child's "natural" development, especially if this is being overseen by adults in a position to bend the twig in a direction which happens to suit them.

This is in contradiction to the "educated-fool" point of view which holds that knowledge for the sake of knowledge is sufficient.

And it is in contradiction to all who would cast off early in each generation everything learned by all the intelligent people of the past, starting with the premise that self-discipline and group-discipline are the twin foundations of a good life in a republic of equals.

If this idea were to become general—that education should be concerned with spiritual, moral and ethical values—a myriad of queer bugs would have to crawl back into the educational woodwork.

Mr. Truman's Peace

IT IS EASY to believe that the Chinese Communists are stronger now than they were at the beginning of the Korean war.

There is no choice but to believe they would become even stronger if the United States intervened in China's civil war by backing Chiang Kai-Shek's troops in an invasion of the Chinese mainland.

Dispatches from Germany describing Western Germany's reluctance to arm its young men for the dubious honor of spearheading the opposition of Allied Europe to a possible war with the Communist bloc cannot be disregarded.

Nor can it be disregarded that opinion in Japan is opposed to a wholesale re-arming of Japanese youth by the United States, lest this revived military power be misused by potential Japanese militarists.

As Gen. Eisenhower has learned in his difficult assignment of giving military strength to the North Atlantic Pact, there has come to be a deep skepticism about the force of arms.

Observers abroad have learned to one degree or another—if their reports can be trusted—that this skepticism is causing widespread questioning of the wisdom of the foreign policy of the United States.

It is the same kind of questioning heard among Americans at home—whether or not a billion dollars spent on information might not have more effect on the prospects of peace than 50 times that much spent on preparations for war.

President Truman said the other day he would seek re-election only if convinced that was necessary to assure peace. His remark seemed to assume that peace either existed or was in sight, as a result of policies which Mr. Truman alone could preserve.

The war in Korea is not peace. A $50 billion military budget is not peace. The foreign policy which has grown out of the circumstances of Mr. Truman's administration is surely not the final answer to the nation's problem.

The problem, far from being solved, is growing worse. The United States cannot command the confidence it must have to lead the world's resistance to authoritarian rule.

Shadow Of An Umbrella

THE SAME French politician who helped British Prime Minister Neville Chamberlain appease Adolf Hitler at Munich in 1938, now says a direct appeal to Stalin is the only hope of peace.

Edouard Daladier either has learned nothing from experience or he has learned too much. He declares a joint European army could accomplish nothing; that it could not stop a Russian attack on the continent; that the French National Assembly, therefore, should take no action toward including West German troops in such an army before appealing directly to Stalin through a top-level disarmament conference.

A shadow falls over his proposal—the shadow of a famous umbrella carried to Munich and back by a wishful British politician who thought he had won "peace in our time" by appealing directly to Hitler.

Or as is said of many things in France besides politicians: The more they change, the more they are the same.

War Strategy

By PETER EDSON

Decisive Weapon May Not Be Big Bomb

WASHINGTON THE QUESTION of what is the most decisive weapon of the present cold war, or what it will be if there is a hot one, was raised recently at a War College lecture in Washington.

The quick and easy answer was that it would be the atomic bomb. Or maybe its successor the hydrogen bomb.

Bue William S. B. Lacy, who was delivering the talk to future generals, admirals, staff officers and diplomats, had another answer.

It might be neither of these mass-destruction weapons, he said.

Instead, the most effective weapon might be found to be the single guerrilla soldier, fighting in loosely organized small bands in the jungles and mountains of Asia.

At first the War College students were inclined to scoff at this idea. The more they thought about it, the more they liked it.

William S. B. Lacy makes no pretense of being a military authority or tactician. He is head of South East Asian affairs in the Department of State.

He watches what goes on in the area from Burma to Indo-China and beyond to the Philippine and Indonesian archipelagos. It is the area where jungle fighting is now general.

AGAINST guerrilla fighters who can strike like cobras and then fade into the jungle, atomic bombs are completely ineffective. It takes a different kind of warfare to win in this area.

The Japanese knew this. In their march down the Malay peninsula, across the Philippines and Indonesia almost to Australia, they fought jungle warfare.

And it took jungle warfare to drive them out. Ask anyone who fought in the South Pacific island hopping.

In the past six years, the French and Viet Nam forces in Indo-China have had superiority of firepower, though they may not always have superiority of manpower.

Today their forces are about equal with 350,000 men apiece.

The French have spent nearly three billion dollars on this war, U. S. arms aid has amounted to 300 million.

French colonial and native Viet-Nam troops have nevertheless fought to a stalemate by the Viet-Minh Communists in the hills.

French casualties in the six years have been over 100,000, with 40,000 killed—a fourth of them Frenchmen.

It is no wonder that the French are tired of this war. Foreign Minister Robert Schuman has said that France would like an honorable peace.

The alternative is more help. Time seems to play on the side of the guerrillas.

Farther south, in the 400-mile-long Malay peninsula, "the Emergency," as it's called, has been going on for four years. If they called this a war, tin miners, rubber planters and rice growers would all have to pay higher insurance rates.

Four-fifths of this area is jungle. In this area the British government and the Federation of Malaya spend a million dollars a week in an inconclusive police action to suppress guerrillas.

Strength of the guerrillas is believed to be from 3,000 to 5,000 with perhaps 10,000 civilian supporters.

Thirty thousand British troops and native police have been unable to drive them out.

IN THE 1948-51 period, the guerrillas have killed over 1,700 civilians and 900 police. Of the civilians killed, 1,000 were Chinese—anti-Communist Chinese.

Of the 2500 guerrillas killed in this same period 2300 were Chinese—Communist Chinese. Thus the war in Malaya is correctly seen as an extension of the Chinese civil war.

The number of Hukbalahaps, or Filipino Communists, is now believed to be going down gradually. At the start of this guerrilla insurrection which has now been going on over five years, new recruits to the movement about equaled its casualties.

The Huks are now believed to number 7,000 to 8,000. But they are backed up by 20,000 to 30,000 civilian sympathizers.

From April, 1950, to the end of 1951, in which the war against the Huks has been intensified, the Philippine government has reported nearly 4,000 Huks killed, 2,000 captured and 5,000 surrendered.

But still the armed Communist guerrilla movement persists.

In recent official pronouncements since the visit of British Prime Minister Winston Churchill to Washington, there have been intimations that if the Communists opened any new offensives, there would be immediate reprisals.

The natural questions is, "With what?"

The obvious conclusion is that there is no master strategy to stop any such aggressions. If there had been, it would have been used before.

No Lynch Law for U.S.

By TRUMAN TWILL

VICTIM of the only lynching I ever saw was an old German father of one of my mother's friends. It occurred during World War I.

The old German was a cabinet maker. He did not speak English well. It's possible that in his broken English he may have voiced sentiments not wholly sympathetic to the spirit of the time, which was to hate everything with a German name or a German background.

In any event, his fellow workers hounded him out of his job in the local woodworking plant, and exhibited his tool chest in front of the plant with a sign on it which read: This Belongs to a Pro-German.

The old man never went back to work. He died before the war was over. He never knew that some of the members of the lynching party which used him to demonstrate their 150 per cent Americanism lived long enough to be ashamed of what they had done.

He wouldn't have lived long enough anyway to see his fatherland debased and befouled by the scourge of Hitlerism—a plague so frightening and horrible that finally there seemed nothing to do but purge Germany to get rid of it.

Hitlerism started as a lynch-law movement and ended up by legalizing the extermination of its enemies as a national policy. Its original aim was to rid Germany by fair means or foul of Communist conspirators. Its ultimate aim was to rule by terror.

The bully boys who had tasted the blood of the Communist conspirators didn't want to stop there. Before the end, they were tasting the blood of everyone who objected to their methods. That was the scourge which disgraced Germany—the running amuck of hundreds of thousands of kraut-headed assassins.

They had a wide variety of ways and means, from the simple one of a bullet through the head, which they used on one another, to the complex one of driving their victims outside the pale of society and letting them die there by slow degrees.

Long before the nightmare of terror finally reached a screaming climax with Hitler's demise, no one in Germany was safe any more—not even the plotters of terror, themselves. They were killing one another. It is too soon to forget these things.

Too soon because the Communist conspirators who drove Germany to suicide are still in business.

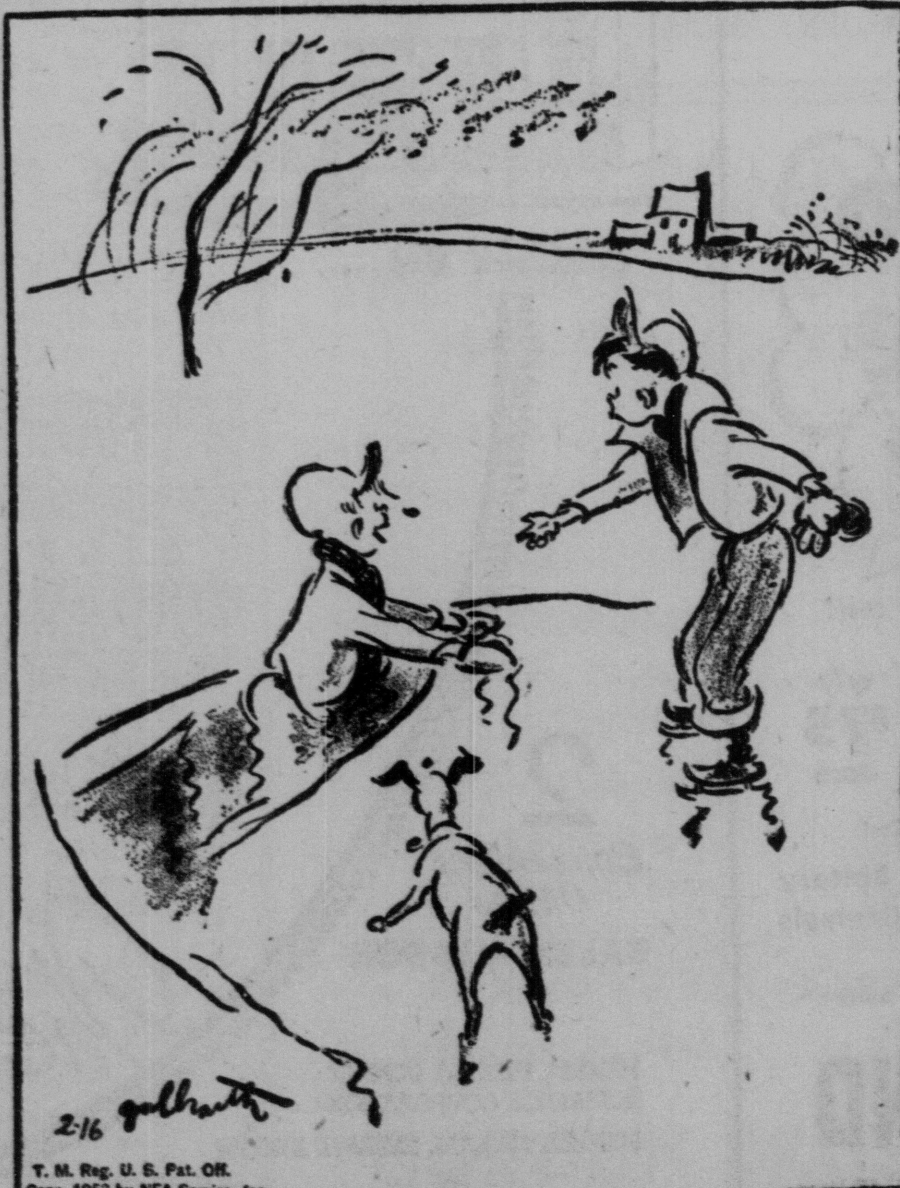

It won't happen here. It can't happen here. It must not happen here. This country must learn from the history of Germany that it never pays to take up lynch law on the premise that the end justifies the means. Because the means, if that happens, finally becomes the end.

Human beings are robbed of their rights, and even their lives, merely for disagreeing with other human beings. For a time it may seem as if everything is going all right, but sooner or later the thing gets out of control.

There is no other name for lynch law that makes it smell any sweeter.

Some Guys Have All the Fun

Compulsory Membership In Trade Unions

By DAVID LAWRENCE

WASHINGTON WHEN a Communist is called before a congressional committee, he can refuse to answer questions on the grounds that the Constitution protects his individual liberty.

But when a loyal American citizen refuses to join a union which he knows is dominated by Communists, he can be fired from his job and the employer must discharge him in those cases where a so-called "union shop" has been granted.

In the face of that kind of situation, a presidential board, packed with pro-union sympathizers, has just issued an edict which tells employees in the non-operating branches of the railroad industry that the government of the United States wants them to join a union and that their jobs will be in peril if they don't.

Congress has struggled for a long time with the question of compulsory membership in trade unions and finally, in the Taft-Hartley Act, it was made lawful for compulsory membership in unions to prevail in those instances where an election was held and the majority of employees desired it.

But no protection was given the minority. Senator Taft, who stood firmly against a "closed shop"—which prohibits an employer from hiring any but union members—yielded in a moment of weakness and agreed to allow sanction by law for the "union shop." In the latter form, the management can hire non-union or union help but he notifies the new employees that at the end of thirty or sixty days they must begin paying dues to the union.

THIS FORM of intrusion into the private beliefs of the citizen concerning those organizations which he may or may not wish to join has never been opposed by so-called "liberals" in America who, for unexplained reasons, overlook the encroachment on individual liberty and the coercion that requires a man to accept against his will an ideological philosophy about his place in society.

The vice in the recommendation for the "union shop" on the railroads is that it puts the government's stamp of approval on compulsory membership. During World War II, governmental boards handed down decisions favoring "maintenance of membership" clauses in union contracts, the idea being that persons who had already joined a union should be required to continue their dues paying.

Even this limited approval of one form of compulsory membership raised quite a controversy and left a bitter aftermath when the war was over and union spokesmen began to insist that the "union shop" was governmentally sanctioned and hence should be granted out of hand.

It is true that the new recommendation in the case of the railroads is supposed to be merely "advisory" and is not binding upon the railroads. But with the railroads today in the hands of the government because of disputes over wages, it will be interesting to see whether any such proposal by a presidential board while the railroad managements are under duress will have any legal effect, even if the roads are compelled by governmental pressure to accept the so-called "advice."

THE HEAD of the presidential board makes the same specious argument that has for years been made in favor of compulsory membership—that those who do not join the union are enjoying a "free ride" and are getting the benefits of a union's efforts to raise wages but are not paying any dues for the service rendered. This would be logical if the laws of the land did not prohibit individual bargaining by the minority of the employees who would be in a position to make whatever contract or terms they pleased in a free market.

The present system presupposes a monopoly by a clique or group representing a majority of the employees, and there are no safeguards to protect the members of either that majority or minority against the internal coercion, ostracism and even violence which too often has brought compulsory membership as a result of high-pressure organizing rather than the volition of the workers themselves.

THERE ARE all kinds of trade unions. Many of them are operated under a democratic system, but there are other unions, like the miners', which are one-man dictatorships.

A theory that the minority in a factory or on a railroad loses its rights the moment an employer, with his back to the wall, agrees to the demand of a "union shop" is a brazen violation of the constitutional rights of the individual. Some day the Supreme Court of the United States will be confronted with the issue that it has long evaded—whether compulsory unionization in any form is a violation of freedom of contract.

Research Weapon

RADIOACTIVE hydrogen, mentioned as a possible source of explosive power in the proposed super H-bomb, may be science's next big weapon in medical and biological research.

Researchers at the Atomic Energy Commission's Argonne National Laboratory, said experiments indicate that the special form of hydrogen known as tritium is no more dangerous to life than other known forms of radiation.

They combined tritium with oxygen to produce a pure but super-heavy and radioactive water for their experiments. Thousands of single-celled animals called paramacia aurelia were permitted to grow and reproduce in this water. The radioactive water also was injected into the stomachs of mice.

The finding will enable researchers to "label" a large variety of important chemical compounds by using radioactive instead of ordinary hydrogen. How human body or plants utilize these compounds can be determined with instruments that detect radioactivity.

The tritium water is even heavier than so-called heavy water used in research that led to development of the atomic bomb. Heavy water is a combination of oxygen and hydrogen 2 or deuterium. Tritium is hydrogen 3—its nucleus containing one proton and two neutrons.

But you have to admire a man who is willing to give up the prospect of retirement and stay on the same old job at the same old $150,000 a year—a thousand a week of which is tax-free.

That's the sacrifice such as we never will know.

Old Silas

By HAL BOYLE

Living Alone With God

ST. PETERSBURG

THIS CLIMATE is very good for hermits. My favorite hermit, Old Silas Dent, is still thriving at 71, convinced that a man can find happiness alone.

Old Silas is Florida's senior hermit. He lives on a small island 12 miles south-west of here, and is known as "The Hermit of Cabbage Key."

Silas, who has a bushy beard and rather looks like Santa Claus gone to seed, gets along very well on a $65 a month state pension and the pin money he picks up selling hand-made fly swatters to tourists.

About once a month Old Silas boats over to the nearby village of Pass-A-Grille to laugh at the tourists, then returns to his island paradise and his favorite pastime—reading the Bible.

Dent has lived there in a palm thatch hut in a cluster of pine trees for 40 years. He doesn't drink or smoke and has a quietly cheerful outlook on life. I love him because of a remark he made to me when I visited him years ago.

"I ain't felt blue since 1912," he said, "and I forget now what worried me then."

YOU HAVE to admire a man like that. He never lets time weigh heavily on him.

"If I get to feeling restless," he said, "I just take one of the hairs from my beard between my fingers and try to split it. Sometimes I can split it clear up to my chin."

As he has a heavy beard, this keeps him pretty busy.

Some time ago a niece of Old Silas became worried about him and talked him into coming to live with her family on the mainland. The very first evening, rather against his will, she prepared him a hot bath.

Old Silas stepped reluctantly into the shining tub—and promptly fell and broke five ribs. As soon as he recovered he insisted on returning to his island hut, where he announced: "Civilization is too dangerous."

ONLY THREE other people live on the island—Claude McCall, a shrimp fisherman, his wife and their two-year-old son, Terry. Mrs. McCall keeps a watchful eye on the elderly hermit's health.

He enjoys her solicitude very much, as he is an old hypochondriac at heart. Each equinox he is sure he will die, but the prospect of death doesn't dismay him in the least.

"I have made my peace with the Lord," he tells visitors, "and I am just sitting here waiting for Him to take me in his own good time."

Old Silas has been such a success at hermiting he is inspiring others to follow his example.

The latest are two lady hermits—Mrs. Barbara Simmons and Esther Shelton. They live all alone on a one-acre mangrove patch near Cabbage Key which they call "God's Island." They spend their time painting and writing. When the waves leap over their island during storms, they go to a village hotel on the mainland.

"THEY SEEM very happy here," said Wilson Hubbard, a rugged young fishing guide who rowed me out to their retreat. Hubbard flew to many strange parts of the world as a transport pilot for Uncle Sam. He has a grateful feeling toward the last world war because, as he said, "It taught me that everything I really wanted out of life was right back here at home."

Unfortunately, I didn't get to see the two lady hermits. A note on their door said they had gone to town for a few days to visit friends. They don't mind civilization as much as Old Silas does.

I looked through a window of their friendly, weathered fishing shack. Everything was neat and in its place. From a wall hung a small, hand-lettered sign that said:

"It is nice living alone with God."

Mrs. John Taylor Presides At Hospital Auxiliary Meeting

NEW OFFICERS were introduced at the meeting of 50 members of the Salem City Hospital Auxiliary Thursday afternoon in the nurses' home. Mrs. John Taylor of Lisbon, new presiding officer, introduced her panel of officers.

They include: Mrs. Guy Byers and Mrs. Curtis Byerly, vice presidents; Mrs. Virgil C. Hart, secretary and Mrs. Fred Crowder, treasurer. Committee chairmen named by Mrs. Taylor are Mrs. Clifford Segesman (sewing); Mrs. George Perrault (ways and means); Miss Elinor Currier (publicity) and Mrs. R. J. McConnor (membership).

Mrs. Lester Bateman is hospital chairman for March. This chairmanship will rotate each month. The auxiliary membership is open to any women of the community who have interest in community welfare through hospital service.

A new plan will be inaugurated at the meeting March 13. The affair will start with sewing as usual at 10 a.m. but the afternoon session will convene at 1 p.m. with a dessert luncheon, followed by the meeting, program and social hour.

Members of the Salem Auxiliary have been invited to attend a luncheon meeting of Ohio auxiliaries at 11:30 p.m. Wednesday, April 2 in Cleveland as a part of the Ohio Hospital Association convention program.

Robert Mosher highlighted the Thursday program with a talk and movies on "Volunteer Work of a Hospital Auxiliary." He declared that a hospital must rely on its auxiliary to aid the executive officers of the hospital in their job of keeping the institution running.

An auxiliary has a three-fold purpose he said—(1) fund-raising; (2) community welfare and (3) volunteer help. Recruiting nurses for training also is an auxiliary project Mr. Mosher said.

Mrs. Byers and Mrs. Byerly presided at the silver service when tea was served at a table beautifully appointed with a lace cloth, white tapers and scarlet carnations in milk glass, emphasizing the Valentine theme. Hostesses for the day were headed by Mrs. R. J. Holzbach, chairman. Assisting were Mrs. Royal Schiller, Mrs. Vincent Bober, Mrs. Edwin Probert, Mrs. Robert Conroy, Mrs. Ted Coyne.

Church Group Hears Talk By Mabel Sheldon

MISS MABEL Sheldon conducted a "word tour" into India when she spoke at a noon luncheon meeting Wednesday in the Methodist Church for members of the Women's Society of Christian Service.

Recently returned from India where she served as a missionary, Miss Sheldon was associated with Miss Nellie Lewis, medical missionary sponsored by the Methodist Church.

Miss Lewis is well-known here and in Damascus, and her work since 1950 in India was praised by Miss Sheldon. She has been instrumental in setting up children's clinics, besides working in the leper colony. Miss Sheldon and Miss Lewis live in tents while on village to village pilgrimages of teaching and healing.

Both women are kept in the mission field by the contributions of the W.S.C.S. Miss Sheldon expects to be in Hollywood, Calif., in about six weeks to assist in the production of a religious film on India. She will return to India in June.

Miss Sheldon began her work among the untouchables in 1935. She had to teach the people to read and at present she has 15 schools and four boarding schools, some taught by former pupils. Later she organized a women's group meeting under a standard (1) to be better wives; (2) better mothers; (3) better Christians and (4) better citizens.

The speaker explained that the religious aspect of both Christmas and Easter (four-day festivals) are emphasized by the use of a large white wooden cross and the altar is constructed of folded white sheets where the worshippers kneel. A "Bride's School," a new innovation at the mission, came about through the child marriage situation in India, Miss Sheldon explained. The girls, mostly unschooled, are taught reading, housemaking and other subjects.

This meeting was especially planned by W.S.C.S. members to introduce Miss Sheldon, who will be here briefly. She also spoke at a Damascus meeting and was a house guest of Mrs. Carl Lehwald.

Junior High Pupils Launch Fund Drive

STUDENTS at Junior High School are working for funds for needed equipment in their school building through a magazine subscription drive being conducted from last Thursday through Thursday, Feb. 28.

This is the third year of a project made worthwhile because approximately 50 per cent of the profits remain for use in purchasing school supplies.

Funds from past drives have gone to a movie projector, a program clock for class bells, basketball and football equipment, a ping pong table for use at noon hour and after school activities, library books and classroom reading books. Many other items also have been purchased which otherwise would not have been secured without these funds.

The drive will be centered this year to secure equipment for the new gym-auditorium, an electric screen, an amplifier and microphone for the stage, and another clock for classroom bells in the gym.

Individual awards are being offered to the students with the highest sales, and classroom competition is keen.

Quakers Rally In Fourth Quarter To Beat Sebring, 51-50

Alek, Harris Spark Quakers To Victory; Face Niles Tonight

By SKIP GREENISEN

Led by the splendid shooting of George Alek in their fourth quarter comeback, the Salem Quakers pulled a 51-50 victory from the fire last night on the local court as Wayne Harris dumped in a bunny shot with twenty seconds of play left to down the Sebring Trojans.

It was Alek who started the ball rolling for the Quakers in their last period spurge when they were 14 points back. The third quarter ended with the scoreboard reading, Sebring 43, Salem 34, and the visiting quintet caged two fouls and a basket to make the count, 48-34.

The 5'10" senior opened the scoring for the Quakers following Sebring's markers with a two-pointer and a pair of fouls. Red-headed Jerry Ball chimed in with a goal and Alek, playing at his best after three unimpressive quarters, hit the hoop again for two field goals and a free throw to make the score, 49-46, with half the quarter to go.

Ball, carrying four fouls since the second quarter, contributed another goal to Salem's 17-point quarter but committed his fifth personal ten seconds later and left the game.

PLAY BETWEEN the two teams grew somewhat rougher and more tense in the next two minutes as neither squad scored, Sebring trying to retain possession of the oval and the locals pursuing it wherever it traveled.

Eddie Votaw, 6-ft. junior cager, was fouled and his attempt was good, putting the Quakers within one point of the Trojans with 1:15 left in the game, 50-49.

Fifteen seconds later Alek was fouled for the third time in the period but his attempt to tie the Gene Kitzmiller (3) as he tried to bring the ball down the floor, giving the latter the chance to knot the count.

However, Kitzmiller missed his free throw attempt as the ball bounced off the rim. Eddie Jordan (4), Trojan forward, pulled in the rebound and hooked a shot but the ball hit on the corner of the backboard and bounced back just as the clock sounded and the game ended with Salem making a fourth quarter comeback, the winner.

THE GAME, a well attended affair on Salem's last home appearance, was Sebring's most of the way as the Trojans led at every quarter except the final and most important period of the game.

The Sebring five opened the game by scoring first, Salem tied it up, 2-all, but the Ray Schaefer-coached combine jumped out in front, 9-3, in the first three minutes. Salem rallied to tie the count at 11-all but again the Trojans boomed out with four baskets and a charity toss to lead at the end of the quarter, 20-12.

The two teams continued into the second quarter with the locals outscoring them, 11-10, but still seven points back, 30-23, at intermission. It was Kitzmiller who kept the Trojans in the first quarter while the second period Sebring scoring was divided fairly even.

Ball with seven was the spark for the locals although Alek and Bill Brehli, Salem's 6 foot 6 inch center, each had canned a pair of goals, Alek also getting a foul.

OPENING the second half, the Quakers closed the gap to five points but with the count reading, 34-30, the Trojans started to pull away and led, 41-30, with three minutes left in the period.

The John Cabas-coached quintet closed the gap to just seven points by free throw chances but Jordan hit for a goal in the closing seconds of the quarter and made the score, 43-34, with the final eight minutes coming up.

Alek held off his scoring spree long enough for the Trojans to move ahead, 48-34, and then the Quakers poured it on, although they lost Brehli with 6:05 remaining in the period.

THE DEFEAT gives Sebring a 15-4 record for the year and breaks their four-game winning streak. Salem captured their eighth victory of the year against seven losses. Tonight the can assure themselves of a winning season with a victory over Niles, since there is only one game left following tonight's tilt.

Rebounding for the Quakers was off as no one man was strong on the boards. Brehli, usual controller of the boards, was having trouble getting position as were Harris and Votaw. The Sebring cagers kept the middle jammed up well, especially when they were in their man-to-man defense. Salem opened the game with a man-to-man and then switched to the zone. The Trojans began playing possession ball so again the locals appeared in the man-to-man.

The Sebring cagers outshot the locals in percentage but the Quakers got the most shots from

Fife, Abrams Lead Foul Shooting Contest

Don Fife and Don Abrams, present and former Salem High School cagers, respectively, lead a group of 61 shooters in Ward Zeller's Foul Shooting contest at the Memorial Building Thursday.

Both Fife and Abrams meshed 24 of a possible 25 foul shots and topped the other contestants in the trials of the contest, the first affair in Salem under the direction of Ward Zeller, Building manager.

The finals of the contest are to be held Feb. 19 at 7 p.m. in the Building.

Jacqueline Brehli, sister of the Salem Quakers' 6'6" center Bill, walked off with the girls trophy as she topped all other female contenders. She is a high school sophomore.

Wayne Harris, the Quakers' leading scorer, and Al Carlos Salem cager in the early 1930's, shared third and fourth place honors in the contests as they each canned 23 foul attempts. Bob Kupka and Joe Carmella each managed 22 fouls of the 25 shots.

Other qualifiers for the finals Tuesday night are Dick Wyss and Harold Garlock, 19; John Kozar, Jack Oesch, Jim Lewis, Tom Pastier, Jack Haldeman, Eldon Bentley and Tom Nedelka, 18; Bill Baker, Bill Schuster and Tony Layton, 17; Bill DeFavero, Harry Davidson, Jim Harrigan and Walter Stratton, 16.

Schuster and Layton were the only qualifying Junior High entrants and the trophy will be awarded to the best shot Tuesday.

U. S. Olympic Contestants Doing Well

OSLO (AP) — The United States is well on the way to better its best previous showing in a winter Olympic games in Europe.

After the first three final events in this 1952 winter sports carnival—the sixth and largest ever staged—the U. S. is running almost twice the pace set at St. Moritz in 1948.

That was the year the Americans gave Sweden and Switzerland a close race and finished third in the unofficial standings. The U. S. topped the standings at Lake Placid, N. Y., in 1932 but because of the depression most European countries did not send full squads.

All standings dealing with the Olympics are unofficial because the high brass that runs the show doesn't recognize anything except individual winners. But unofficial standings have been compiled just the same ever since the modern Olympics began in 1894.

Going into today's events—the finals of the 500 meters speed skating, where the United States should gain some points, and the men's downhill skiing, where it probably won't—the Americans had 17½ points, a half-point more than Austria, and 8½ points more than at the same stage in 1948.

Andrea Mead Lawrence sent the Americans off to a flying start Thursday by winning the women's giant slalom, the first final event. Katy Rodolph picked up fifth place in the same race and the U. S. had 12 points.

The American two-man bobsled beat all but the world champion Germans to take second place and five more points yesterday. And Brooks Dodge shared sixth place in the men's giant slalom to give the U. S. the half-point bulge it holds over Austria.

The full point standings after the first two days were: United States 17½; Austria 17; Germany 14; Norway 11; Switzerland 9; Italy 3; France 2; Belgium 1 and Sweden ½.

6 Enter Races In Minnesota

Latest Primary Entry Is Senator Kefauver

(By The Associated Press) Six possible candidates, three Republicans and three Democrats, are on the ballot today for Minnesota's March 18 presidential primary.

Actually, there are seven slates but two are for Gen. Douglas MacArthur.

Latest entry was a Democrat, Senator Kefauver of Tennessee. His name was filed before deadline last night by backers wearing cookskin caps.

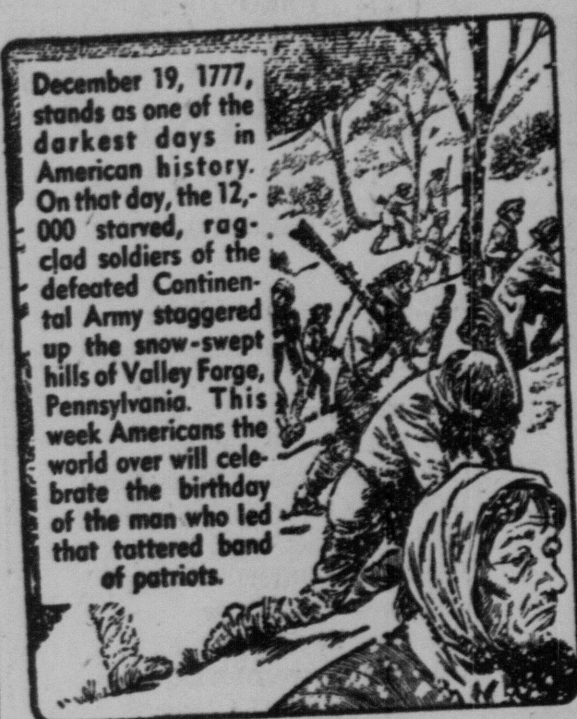

The other two Democrats are Minnesota's Senator Humphrey and E. Dudley Parsons of Minneapolis. Republican filings are former Minnesota Governor Harold E. Stassen, Gen. Dwight Eisenhower, General MacArthur and Edward C. Slettedahl of St. Paul is pledged to MacArthur.

Stassen, Slettedahl and Parsons filed their own names and have until Feb. 20 to withdraw. The others, filed by petition, have until Feb. 25. To drop out, candidates must file affidavits saying they would not accept nomination.

Senator Humphrey is a "favorite son" and says he will turn his delegates over to President Truman at the nominating convention. Parsons says he is "against the bipartisan war policies of Truman and Humphrey."

Slettedahl said the duplicate MacArthur slate was filed in case the general withdrew his name. In Wisconsin, meanwhile, there

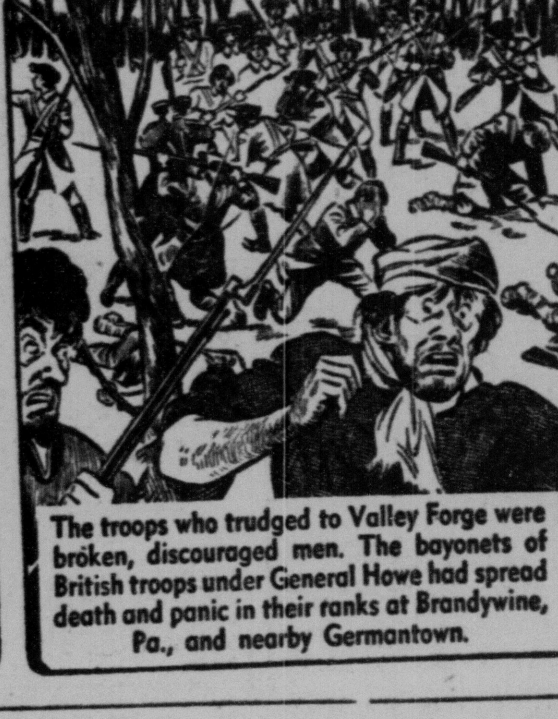

VALLEY FORGE: Inspiration for Today

December 19, 1777, stands as one of the darkest days in American history. On that day, the 12,000 starved, ragged soldiers of the defeated Continental Army staggered up the snow-swept hills of Valley Forge, Pennsylvania. This week Americans the world over will celebrate the birthday of the man who led that shattered band of patriots.

He was George Washington. And his raw courage in the face of bitter suffering tells a story that may well serve to inspire an America again being called upon to make sacrifices and safeguard freedom against tyranny.

The troops who trudged to Valley Forge were broken, discouraged men. The bayonets of British troops under General Howe had spread death and panic in their ranks at Brandywine, Pa., and nearby Germantown.

By JAY HEAVILIN and RALPH LANE

For Washington's men, the 13-mile march to Valley Forge had been a week-long nightmare of British attacks and snowstorms. Reaching their winter campsite, the fatigued and frozen soldiers fell beside campfires, too weary to pitch tents or post sentries. But the worst was yet to come.

CLASS RUNover Page : 6 Enter arose a possibility that General Eisenhower's backers and Gov. Earl Warren of California might form a coalition.

Philip F. LaFollette, former Wisconsin governor, announced that a conference would be held in Madison today to enter such a slate in the state's GOP primary April 1.

Rep. Hilling (R-Calif said in a Lincoln Day speech at Keene, N.H., last night he thought Warren's chances of getting the presidential nomination as a compromise candidate "are improving daily."

He said Senator Taft of Ohio and Eisenhower, "the two leading contenders, are now deadlocked." Along this same line, Harold E. Stassen told a Boston audience that neither Taft nor Eisenhower could win the nomination. The former Minnesota governor admitted hopes to win the nomination.

In Wisconsin, meanwhile, there tion as a compromise candidate. In Manchester, N. H., Stassen said Taft is likely to lose the nomination because his policies "are out of date" and Eisenhower will lose because he is "too close to the administration" and is a military man.

In Cheyenne, Wyo., Taft told a GOP rally that victory could come only "by an all-out attack on the immorality of this administration, on unlimited spending and taxing and bureaucratic relation of the Fair Deal, and on the disastrous foreign policy which had led to Russian power and unnecessary war."

Rubber Shortage Over, Goodrich Head Claims

WASHINGTON (AP)—Top officials of some of the nation's major rubber firms contended yesterday the rubber supply situation has so improved that the ban on white sidewall tire production no longer is needed.

They expressed their views in letters to Rep. Bender (R-Ohio), who recently protested to the National Production Authority that U. S. manufacturers are prohibited from making white sidewalls, while Canadian plants are turning them out and selling them in this country.

In reply, E. D. Kelly, director of NPA's rubber division, said the ban—imposed a year ago—was necessary to meet the stockpiling program.

John L. Collyer, president of the B. F. Goodrich Co., Akron, said it is his firm's position "that the government's strategic rubber

Child Relates Watching Father Kill 2 Persons

SAN FRANCISCO (AP)—Six-year-old Sandra Lum, whose father killed her mother and grandmother while she tugged at his coat, is a calm little girl. With dry eyes and without emotion she told her story of watching Donald Lum, 28, shoot his estranged wife, May, and mother-in-law, Mrs. Nip Shee Lee, 49, yesterday.

Lum later killed a sister-in-law, her husband, their baby and then himself, in what acquaintances surmised was an eruption of family conflict over Chinese and American ways of life.

Steel Industry Says CIO Sidesteps Issue

NEW YORK (AP)—The steel industry says the CIO United Steelworkers have not refuted "the fact that a steel wage rise at this time will touch off a costly new inflation spiral."

The steel companies' made this statement yesterday after CIO President Philip Murray addressed a wage stabilization board panel holding hearings here on the union's demands for an 18 1/2-cent-an-hour wage boost.

Murray, who also is president of the steelworkers, spoke in rebuttal to previous industry testimony. He said the firms were "seeking to provoke a steel strike or the threat of a strike, in order to place additional pressure" on the government for price increases.

John Stephens, a vice president of the U. S. Steel Corporation, said Murray's remarks were "poppycock and balderdash."

Ralph H. Murphy, seaman, USCG, son of Mr. and Mrs. Raymond R. Murphy of Route 1, Homeworth, has recently completed a six month Sonarman course at the U. S. Fleet Sonar School, Key West, Fla. Consisting primarily of instruction in basic electronics with emphasis on sonar maintenance, operations, and instruction in the technique and tactics of anti-submarine warfare, this course is one of the most difficult offered enlisted men in the Navy today.

Egypt Accuses Britain Of Causing Rioting

CAIRO, Egypt (AP)—An Egyptian note accused Britain last night of setting the stage for the wild rioting three weeks ago in Cairo but deplored the resulting loss of British lives and property damage.

The note rejected a British charge of "official connivance" in the riots. Nine British nationals were among the 67 killed in violence that destroyed British and other foreign property in the Egyptian capital.

The Egyptian note said the anti-British disorders were provoked by British military action in the Suez Canal Zone where 46 Egyptian auxiliary police were killed, 72 injured and hundreds taken prisoner the day before the fire riots.

ONE FOR THE ROAD!

One more drink—"one for the road!" It was the Toast to Death for thousands of men and women, and innocent children, too—last year.

The records do not show how many lives were needlessly sacrificed because of alcohol-clouded driving, but they do show that over 6,000 drivers involved in fatal accidents had been drinking. Another 2,000 pedestrians met death in traffic, while in an alcoholic haze.

Ask the man who has just had one or two drinks and he'll probably defend his ability to drive. Perhaps he can—but not safely. Alcoholic stimulation breeds carelessness, speeding, recklessness. In another stage it courts drowsiness. Tests have proved that even a moderate number of drinks lowers a driver's reactions to the danger point. Quick response and alert judgment fail in the emergency.

The irresponsible drinking driver is to blame for a particularly heavy share of night-time traffic accidents. Tragically, he endangers not only his own life, but the lives of those riding with him—innocent people in other cars and pedestrians.

So before you take "one for the road," consider the consequences. If you drink, don't drive. You'll never hear better advice.

Hobby

was printed Mr. Riddle has uncovered 98 automobiles which he had not known of, and expects to include about 3,000 autos in his fifth edition.

The most complete list of automobiles published before his work included only 1,700 vehicles. Mr. Riddle's list opens with three autos titled simply A.B.C.s, put on the market in 1901, 1908 and 1922, and closes with a Zust, also manufactured in 1908.

STEAM-POWERED autos haven't all died with the old mud roads, Mr. Riddle's research reveals. The Suttle, the Lawler and the Keene, all steam-driven vehicles, were put on the market in 1948, his book shows.

Among the many cars manufactured in late years, but little publicized, are the Tatra and the Healey in 1949; the Publick, the Puget, the Rockette and the Riley in 1948.

The Saturday Evening Post used a list of 2,500 automobiles from his book as the basis for an advertising brochure.

Mr. Riddle uncovers the names of vehicles through automobile histories and magazines, doing most of his research in the Cleveland public library.

Copies have sold in Hawaii, Japan and England as well as most of the states in the United States.

Mr. Riddle says he now gets a lot of tips on automobiles from antique auto collectors, who furnish the chief market for his book, but he will not include the name of a car in his volume until he has actually seen proof of its existence printed.

HE IS A member of the Horseless Carriage Club, the Veteran Motor Car Club of America and the Antique Automobile Club of America, and three leading organizations in the country for men interested in early American power driven vehicles. And despite the full day necessitated by his work and hobbies, Mr. Riddle still finds time for active community interest in the Salem Elks Club as chairman of the Youth Activity Committee. He is a past president of the Mullins Foremen's Club and recently was named to the club's Board of Control.

Queen Elizabeth Rests From Ordeal

LONDON (AP)—Young Queen Elizabeth II hid lingering grief for her father behind her home's secluding walls today before grappling with a host of duties and taking the long rest her advisors are urging upon her.

Within Clarence House she rested amid the comforting presence of her handsome young husband, the Duke of Edinburgh, and her two children, three-year-old Crown Prince Charles and his year-old sister, Princess Anne.

Before she takes a holiday to recover from the strains imposed upon her by the death of her father, King George VI, and her sudden ascension to the British throne, she must make the decisions that only a sovereign can make.

One of these decisions comes only to a queen, and never to a king—the choice of rank and title for her husband.
